Unlock Your Career Potential with a Master's in Computer Science and Information Systems

Are you ready to advance your career in the rapidly evolving field of computer science and information systems? The Master of Science in Computer Science and Information Systems (MSCSIS) program at the University of North Carolina Wilmington is tailored for aspiring technology professionals. This program offers an innovative curriculum, expert faculty, and hands-on experiences to prepare students for success in today's digital world.

WHY CHOOSE THE MSCSIS PROGRAM AT UNCW?

UNCW's MSCSIS program stands out for its interdisciplinary approach, combining computer science fundamentals with advanced coursework in information systems, cybersecurity, data analytics, and more. With a focus on practical application and real-world problem-solving, students gain the skills and knowledge needed to thrive in a variety of technology-driven roles.

CUTTING-EDGE-CURRICULUM, HANDS-ON LEARNING

The MSCSIS curriculum is designed to keep pace with the latest trends and technologies in the field. Students can delve into topics such as artificial intelligence, cloud computing, blockchain, and cybersecurity, gaining valuable insights and hands-on experience through projects, labs, and internships.

OPTIONAL PRACTICAL TRAINING (OPT) FOR F-1 STUDENTS

You can complement your academic studies with practical work experience through Optional Practical Training (OPT). OPT allows you to gain valuable professional experience in your field of study while remaining in the United States for up to 12 months after completing your degree. This hands-on experience provides valuable insights into American business practices and culture.

UNLOCK YOUR POTENTIAL

Whether your goal is to become a software engineer, data scientist, cybersecurity analyst, or IT consultant, the MSCSIS program provides the tools and resources you need to succeed. With a strong emphasis on innovation, collaboration, and problem-solving, UNCW empowers students to become leaders in the fast-paced world of technology.
